Constipation, and Headache.

"I have proved the value of Ayer's Pills in relieving dyspepsia and headache, with which complaints I was long troubled, but neither the doctor nor my self supposed I should ever be well again. Through the use of the above medicine I am better than I have been for years."—A. GASKILL, Versailles, Ill.

"I have used Ayer's Pills for 15 years as a cathartic in liver complaint, and always with extremely beneficial effect, never having had need of other medicine. I also give Ayer's Pills to my children, when they require an aperient, and the result is always most satisfactory."—A. A. EATON, Centre Conway, N. H.

"Having been severely afflicted with costiveness, I was induced to try Ayer's Pills. Their use has effected a complete cure, and I can confidently recommend them to all similarly afflicted."—C. A. WHITMAN, Nipomo, Cal.

A GAGE OF LOVE.

Concluded from last week.

By swallowed your words as to swear you never even dreamed them."
"It's a lie," raged another voice, tremulous with wrath, "a damned unmanly lie! I'll bet my head and my boots that a graduate of the Pergamos Medical school takes the prize without half trying. I could name a thousand fine young men who could do it, and let me tell you, sir, when this particular fine young man, whoever he may be, has done it, he can own anything I've got, from a partnership to my daughter's hand in marriage. Meanwhile, sir, conceive your doubts are meant in no friendly way, and so good day to you."

Dr. Dick crouched in his chair and just in time, for through the room stamped Dr. John Knox McPherson, red faced and furious, through the room and out, with a tremendous emphasis of the door.

"Ha, ha, ha!" came from the inner room. Dr. Dick entered and found, as he expected, Professor Eben Meade, dean of the Pergamos Law school, perpetual crony and occasional foe of the irascible president, and hence this young man's advocate and friend.

"At it again, hey?" said Dr. Dick.
"Pray what is it all about?"

The professor best his sides for several minutes before he answered.
"That impossible old idiot," he gurgled, "went off in a fury just because I ventured to say that it wasn't an absolutely sure thing that one of his confounded graduates would take the prize offered by the state university for the best essay on 'The Idiosyncrasies of the Medulla Oblongata.' As if he hadn't turned out a perfect pestilence of numskulls and quacks, by Jove. Why, even you, my son, had to clear away the cobwebs with a German brush, and yet he'll wag his head and his boots on his paragon and give to the victor his daughter. I swear if I wasn't just as old as I used to be I'd have a try for it myself. Eh, ha! ha!" and away waddled the professor.

Dr. Dick stood and pondered like one who has heard the voice of the oracle, yet is doubtful of interpretation. "I'd have a try for it myself," he repeated. Ah, why, oh, why shouldn't he, a graduate of the Pergamos Medical school, take the president at his word, and in winning the prize win also a bride? Would not the old man's gratification in his triumph do away with all remembrance of his apostasy? Would not the former regard revive enhanced by this later respect? At least he would have a try for it. Yes, indeed!
At the worst, he could hold the doctor to his word, and who more scrupulous than John Knox McPherson?

At worst—ah, this worst would be rapture, even if the old man's respect should burst with chagrin! Have a try for it! Of course he would, and gain it too! For weeks thereafter the places that had known Dr. Dick's recreations knew them no more, and the round of his professional engagements became in comparison his resting spells.

There was general rejoicing in Pergamos, and amusement too, when it was known that Dr. Dick had won the great prize offered by the state university. Not only was the state pride tickled by his success, but also the popular sense of incongruity, and many were the surmises as to how the old president would be able to assimilate so bitter a pill. Dr. Dick wondered also, and uneasily, as he wended his way to his antagonist's house, where the mead of his victory was awaiting him. He was resolved to endure verbal, eye, even physical abuse, if only, ah! if only he might be permitted to see his beloved. But what? Would he be allowed to begin where he had left off? Poor Dr. Dick did not realize that Evelyn didn't know that he had ever left off.

John Knox McPherson, M. D., received Dr. Dick with the awful, astute dignity of his namesake. "It behoves me, sir," he began, "by virtue of my official position, to present to you the prize which you have so unexpectedly—ahem! so meritoriously won. I am constrained, too, to express my personal sentiments of gratification—no, damn it all, I mean amazement—I swear, mon, I dinna know what I mean. I've lost my head altogether!" and the red bandanna frantically waved like a signal of distress.

"Not at all," said Dr. Dick, with the pleasant, captivating smile of his boyhood. "I've saved your head and your boots too."

"What?" roared the old man.
"Was it you snuggling before the fire? Well, it was lucky I didn't know you. I was that enraged! But you did maintain my words, my boy, and right scientifically too. And the dean may put that in his pipe and smoke it. And you are a graduate of my school and an honor to it besides.
There, there. I've always loved you, and I'll not only forgive you, but I'll forget, and Dr. Dick was inclosed in a snuffy and sticky embrace.

"My success was due to your instruction, sir," said Dr. Dick adroitly.
"All else is but."

"But an idiosyncrasy of your confounded conceited medulla oblongata," interrupted the delighted president.

"And now may I hope," continued the young man, "that you will wish to keep your word?"

"Me word! I'll have you to understand, sir!"

"From a partnership to my daughter's hand in marriage," quoted Dr.
Dick.

"So it's Evelyn you're after, and twas not a sneaking fondness for your old preceptor that moved you?
Well, well! It's natural, I suppose, and the mother says she has never forgotten. But, no secrets out of school, you shall just ask her yourself. A partnership, though—that requires deliberation. There'll be no potencies, no triturations, will there, now?"

"Nothing later than Galen," asserted Dr. Dick.

"Come on then." And a moment later this medical knight was alone in the drawing room with his lady-love.

How pretty she was, and how altogether desirable in her unfeigned joy!

"I have never changed," Evelyn murmured in response to his impassioned protestations, "and I have always believed in your constancy."

"Ah, well, you might!" vowed the shameless Dr. Dick. "Your long absence has been purgatory, and the three glimpses I have caught of you since your return revelations of a heaven cruelly denied."

"Poor fellow!" sighed Evelyn.
"But it's only twice, isn't it?"

"Twice!" repeated Dr. Dick in wonderment.

"Why, yes. Twice that you have seen me—once in church and once from the club."

Dr. Dick was quick and accurate in diagnosis. Evidently there was some mistake about that encounter in the metropolis, but whose mistake? Why, his own, of course. This young girl's nature was too simple, too clear for any doubt as to that.
Instead of following an ideal, he had merely blundered into felicity. But should he explain? Well, hardly.
Love was too subtle for an analysis.
An explanation might possibly separate; it could never bind.

"Twice, of course," he assented.
"But I didn't think you saw me, you looked so demure."

"That ought to have told you," said Evelyn.

"See," continued Dr. Dick after a moment's reflection, displaying the little golden anchor in his watch-guard; "see, I found this in the city, and I've kept it ever since. It reminded me of you."

"How sweet of you!" cried the en-raptured Evelyn. "It is our class badge. One of the girls must have lost it. I always wear mine on my chain around my neck. And you will always wear that, won't you, as a token of your devotion, as a gage of love?"—New York Times.

Such a Thing as Luck.

If a man does not believe there is such a thing as luck, let him go to a race track. There was a good illustration on Derby day. A young man went out to see what races were like.
He had not thought of betting, but after he had been there awhile he saw that everybody was "playing," so he went down in the betting stand to look into the matter. He arrived just after they had posted the odds on the second race. He saw the name "Elise," and at once he knew that Elise was going to win. He had been thinking about Elise for weeks, sending her flowers and going to see her twice a week—dear Elise! The name could not lose. He went straight up to a bookmaker and said:

"I want to bet you $10 that Elise will win the next race, if you please." He did not grow excited during the race; he was not surprised when Elise won, only very proud. He pulled out his ticket and showed it to a group of friends, saying:

"See what I've done!"
"Won $250! Why didn't you tell me about this?" exclaimed the man who had played "form." The young man would not believe at first that he had won $250. He said he had only bet $10.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Making Sure.

John W. Kern tells a good story on one of his distinguished friends of the Indianapolis race. It was several years ago, and his friend was trying a case in the circuit court which related to a valuable piece of real estate.

One of the witnesses in the case was a prominent real estate dealer of the city, and when he came upon the stand to testify the usual question was asked him as to whether he had been sworn. He replied that he had.
"Your name, please?" was the first question.

The answer was truthfully given.
"And your occupation?"

"Real estate agent."

"How's that?"

"I said 'real estate agent.'"

"Swear this witness again, your honor," shouted the attorney.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

A Missouri judge sentenced two things come to him who waits might have added that the man who goes after them gets them much quicker.

The Champion Egg Stealer.

Game eggs and small birds alike are the objects of the fowls, furred and feathered, who come behind man.
The feathered ones naturally have the widest scope, for eggs, whether reposing on the ground or in a well built nest in a lofty tree, come equally within the range of sight and swoop.
The furred ones have to content themselves with the ground eggs, which are of course the best. Perhaps, therefore, they have the best of the deal, though not so much variety.
And among them we rank facile princes, the stealthy, sinuous, ubiquitous weasel. Stout and polecat like eggs, out they are rarer and more sparsely distributed than the smaller but more effective weasel.

This wily creature is an egg sucker of immense enthusiasm and perseverance. Winding its way through the purple heather or the scrub and bracken toward the nursery of the red or black grouse, creeping amid grass or clover or scarcely rustling along the leaf carpeted ditch toward the simple nest of the gallant hen partridge, a veritable amazon in defense of her family, poking its sleek head out of a disused drain in the farmyard, reconnoitering the henhouses, gliding through the long grass at the edges of the rides and amid the hazels and hollies of the coppes after pheasant's costly eggs, the weasel is equally indefatigable.
It will banquet on every egg it can find, till gorged like a trout on the May fly and kill young birds till it de-sists only from sheer weariness. Like its semiaquatic relative, the ferret, it is in bloodthirstiness and its concomi-tants a four footed September.—

The Brooklyn Bridge.

As you stand in the exact middle of Brooklyn bridge you will observe where the compensation is made for the expansion and contraction by heat and cold. The bridge, resting on the four cables, is divided into two parts in the middle, and one end is arranged to slide over the other. You can put your hand on the railing and measure by the rubbing of the parts how far they have pulled back in winter or have overlapped in summer. If you watch from morning till midday, you can see just how much the bridge has expanded in six hours.

But does the bridge which thus feels heat and cold also feel at all the strain of the weights that pass over it? Let us look and see. We stand again in the middle of the bridge and watch as a train of cars passes by. We notice, where we looked before to see one end slide over the other, that foot passengers do not seem to affect it in the least.
When a heavy team passes by, there is no observable movement. The bridge does not seem to have noticed it at all. But here comes a train of cars crossing the bridge. As it comes near we observe that the railing overlaps the end begin to move apart. They separate for an inch.
Then as the train passes they come together again, and in a moment they are in their normal position. The bridge has noticed that the train was passing. It did not break, it felt no painful strain, but it noticed and felt and acknowledged and registered the pressure which vainly attempted to break the cables.—Independent.

A Soldering Stick For Linemen.

Serious trouble is often caused on electric lines by defective joints, and a means of accomplishing more and better work than the linemen are usually able to do is now provided in a "soldering stick," which when rubbed on a heated joint melts, spreads out and produces a bright surface to which solder adheres with great readiness. The primitive method of using soldering salts and acids is inconvenient and wasteful. The bottle is often dropped or broken, and its contents are destroyed. In any case the solution is slopped over the joint and a large proportion of it allowed to escape and corrode anything it touches. With the "stick" all the flux adheres to the wire, and in addition to there being no waste there is no dripping of a destructive acid.
The compound contains nothing that will injure the wire or affect the insulation. It is put up in the form of a round stick 6 inches long and an inch in diameter and has about the consistency of sealing wax when cold.—

Italian Poker.

Mora is to Italians what draw poker is to Americans—the national game.
There was an astonishing amount of gesticulation and loud talk, but it was all in the game and well meant.
The game is played by two persons.
One calls a number by his seven. He throws out, say, five fingers to make the number, and his opponent must try to make up the remainder, two, by immediately putting up that number of fingers. The moves must be made instantly. Some of the players are marvelously rapid, but to the uninitiated there is not much pleasure in the game. The stakes are usually very small.—Buffalo Courier.

J. H. GRANICE, EDITOR.

RAYS OF SUNSHINE.

What Our Contemporaries Have to Say About the "Index-Tribune."

At the very best the life of the country editor is anything but sunshine and roses. He has to submit to having his paper called the "bladder;" is accused of trying to run the town, has frequently to take his pay out in cabbage, hay and wood and occasionally an old subscriber drops into his sanctum and nearly frightens the poor devil to death by exclaiming "stop my paper." The country editor, however, is often given credit by his home people for his efforts in their behalf, which more than compensates him for the sarcastic things said about him by those who fear his independence and have not the brains to appreciate his calling.

The INDEX-TRIBUNE editor is no exception to the rule. This week a few rays of sunshine from our exchanges have penetrated our sanctum and we reflect them in these columns to show that there is also a bright side to country journalism.

The SONOMA INDEX-TRIBUNE has just turned its sixteenth year. It's as bright as its age suggests. — Santa Rosa Democrat.

The SONOMA INDEX-TRIBUNE has entered on its sixteenth volume and we congratulate Brother Harry H. Granice on the success that has attended him in old Sonoma. The people of that town seem to appreciate a good local paper and stand by it. May prosperity continue with you, Harry. — Contra Costa Democrat.

The SONOMA INDEX-TRIBUNE has just entered on its sixteenth volume. Editor Granice publishes an ideal country paper. Newsy, bright and honestly edited, the INDEX-TRIBUNE is richly deserving of the splendid patronage it evidently receives. — San Leandro Standard.

The INDEX-TRIBUNE is sixteen years old with its last issue, and enters upon a new volume as one of the substantial fixtures of Sonoma Valley. Brother Granice is running a bright paper, and if he has anything to say, has no fear in saying it. We hope the INDEX-TRIBUNE may grow in strength and prosperity in the future and feel sure it will. — Healdsburg Enterprise.

The SONOMA INDEX-TRIBUNE has just turned sixteen. Editor Granice has been in the harness long enough to pass that stage of newspaper work where it is necessary to work up clots of froth into something resembling items. The INDEX-TRIBUNE is unusually free from make-believe news. Though he was one of the "swifts" on the Bulletin before the lookout and could make money simply by picking it up, he has made such a success of his paper that a couple of city flats, besides comfortable possessions in Sonoma, act as a paper weight on the right side of his ledger. — Sebastopol Times.

Seventh, Not the Eighth Class.

Since the publication of the INDEX-TRIBUNE of last week we have been reliably informed that Sonoma county does not belong to the eighth class of counties, but to the seventh class. We now inform our readers of that mistake and in so far as we as the class is concerned, we stand corrected. But whether Sonoma county or some other county belongs to the eighth class the fact remains that our last Legislature did blunder as to the terms of office of county and township officers in counties of the eighth class. It seems to us to be a rather round-about way to say that counties containing a population of thirty-two thousand and five hundred shall belong to the seventh class, and those containing thirty-two thousand shall belong to the eighth class. Why not say directly that Sonoma shall belong to the seventh class and Fresno shall belong to the eighth class, and save the people the trouble of hunting up the census of 1890? We cannot see what need there is for such circulation, especially as every county in the State is placed in a separate class.

Mr. J. C. Boswell, one of the best known and most respected citizens of Brownwood, Texas, suffered with diarrhoea for a long time and tried many different remedies without benefit, until Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was used; that relieved him at once. For sale by all dealers.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

The Board of Supervisors met Monday in regular monthly session. Chairman Sales presided.

Warrants were ordered drawn for Sonoma road district fund $94.87; Lakeville, $484.89; Penn's Grove, $26; Redwood, $93.25; Stewart's Point, $63.30; Occidental, $23.65; Russian River, $20; Fulton, $215.55; Santa Rosa, $529.63; Washington, $90; Skaggs' Springs, $78.18; Bloomfield, $259.75; Sebastopol, $118; Forestville, $32.32; Petaluma, $30; Healdsburg, $71.85.

In the matter of constructing a new forty-foot bridge over the creek between Old and New Windsor in Russian River road district at a cost of $113.70, it was moved and ordered that said bill be allowed.

In the matter of sixty bonds of Court House school district of the denomination of $500 each, payable out of the building fund of the Court House school district, a petition signed by the majority of the School Directors of said district has been filed with the Clerk of the Board, praying for an order withdrawing said bonds from the market. The bonds were ordered canceled and destroyed. Saturday, August 18th, at 10:30 o'clock was set for hearing a petition from the School Board.

TUESDAY, August 7th.

The Board of Supervisors met Tuesday, Chairman Sales presided. The report of the committee appointed to examine bridges in Sebastopol, Petaluma and Fort Ross road districts was read and accepted and the committee discharged.

In the matter of election booths for the coming election it was moved that fifty-five of said booths be purchased by the County Clerk from Office Specialty Company at the rate of $8 each, to be delivered at the county seat on or before October 1st next.

The Board allowed $10 each to Doctors Jesse and Pierce for services rendered.

Warrants were ordered drawn for Ocean road district, $68; Freestone $112; Knight's Valley, $52.75; Mendocino, $142.16.

In the matter of money deposited with the County Treasurer by Dr. R. P. Smith belonging to Anton Geiger, deceased, the County Treasurer was instructed to pay the said funds to H. W. Ungewitter, administrator.

WEDNESDAY, August 8th.

The Board of Supervisors met Wednesday. Chairman Sales presided. The petitions of Mrs. C. M. Davis and Mrs. Eliza Wilcox to be placed on the indigent list were refused. Ninety-two outside indigents were allowed relief for the month of August.

Mr. Thomas Batte, editor of the Graphic, Texarkana, Arkansas, has found what he believes to be the best remedy in existence for the flux. His experience is worth remembering. He says: "Last summer I had a very severe attack of flux. I tried almost every known remedy, none giving relief. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was recommended to me. I purchased a bottle and received almost immediate relief. I continued to use the medicine and was entirely cured. I take pleasure in recommending this remedy to any person suffering with such a disease, as in my opinion it is the best medicine in existence." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by all dealers.

Republican Convention.

Call for Precinct Primaries and Republican County Convention.

THURSDAY, AUG. 16, 1894.

At a meeting of the Republican County Central Committee held at Santa Rosa July 20th, 1894, it was ordered that primary elections be held in the various precincts of the County on MONDAY, AUGUST 20, 1894.

At 10 o'clock A. M., for the purpose of nominating the following county officers to be voted for at the general election to be held on Tuesday, November 13th, 1894: One State Senator for the Sixteenth Assembly District, comprising the townships of Anny, Redwood, Mendocino, Ocean, Petaluma, Redwood, Salt Point and Vallejo; one Assemblyman for the Seventeenth Assembly District, comprising the townships of Santa Rosa, Sonoma, Russian River, Knights Valley, Washington and Cloverdale; County Clerk, Sheriff and Tax Collector, Treasurer, Recorder and Auditor, District Attorney, Assessor, Superintendent of Schools, Coroner and Public Administrator. County Surveyor, one Supervisor for the Second District; one Supervisor for the Fourth District; Justices of the Peace and Constables in the different townships, on or before September 20th, 1894. The delegates from Cloverdale, Washington, Knights Valley and Mendocino townships comprise Supervisor District No. 4.

The delegates from each township will constitute a Township Convention to nominate two candidates for Justice of the Peace and two candidates for Constable for each township.

It is ordered that the number of delegates to be elected from each precinct be apportioned upon the vote cast for Republican Presidential Electors at the general election of 1892, as follows, viz: (One delegate for each precinct, one delegate for each forty votes and one delegate for each fraction of forty or more votes. The apportionment being as follows: Bloomfield.....3 Timber Cove.....1 Forestville.....2 Penn's Grove.....2 North Sebastopol.....2 Cloverdale Town.....3 Bodoc.....2 Mendocino.....2 Freestone.....1 WINE SYNDICATE.

The Producers and the Merchants to Pool Issues.

As announced in these columns several weeks ago the wine merchants of San Francisco, if we except the houses of J. Gundlach & Co., Lachman & Jacobi and Schilling & Co., are at the head of the wine syndicate which has been in a state of incubation for several months past. For a number of years the wine industry of California has been on the down grade and scores of producers have become bankrupt, while ruin is staring many others in the face. The formation of the present syndicate was a last resort of the large producers, who have little to lose by joining the combination. The same may be said of the city merchants, many of whom have been making little or nothing out of the industry the past two years owing, it is believed, to over production. The Examiner of yesterday confirms what was asserted in these columns three or four weeks ago. Our city contemporary says: "The wine syndicate is a fact. Its papers of incorporation were filed yesterday. To-day it will elect its officers and commence to take over the grape and wine contracts made by the Viticultural Committee of seven with the producers of the State. These agreements to sell are said to cover over 80 per cent of the output of California for the next five years. Yesterday's action doubles the value of viticultural wealth in California, as the present price of grapes is $5 per ton, and the lowest price on the syndicate schedule is $10 a ton.

"A curious feature of this association of wine dealers is that the initiative came from the producers. Not only did the merchants stand back, but it required many weeks of arduous endeavor to reconcile their conflicting interests and to bring them into a compact. In bringing about this result such men as Henry Epstein, Herman Bendel, Pietro Rossi and Attorney Daniel Titus have been most determined workers, and have been ably seconded by the members of the Viticultural Committee.

"The result has been that the scope of the combination has been considerably increased. Instead of only having relation to California wines, brandies and grapes, it now covers all products of the vine and liquors, both foreign and domestic. "Seven houses are in the syndicate and it is likely that three others may be admitted before the close of the week. These firms are: Arpad Haraszthy & Co., C. Carpy & Co., Kohler & Van Bergen, Kohler & Frohling, the Napa Valley Wine Company, H. Lachman & Co., and B. Dreyfus & Co. Those which yet hesitate are: Schilling & Co., Gundlach & Co. and Lachman & Jacobi. The seven houses first named transfer all of their assets, such as wine, wineries, cellars, cooperage stock, etc., to the syndicate. Each, however, will preserve its integrity, keeping its labels, trade marks and brands, while doing business as part of the syndicate. Each will keep a set of books and will make returns of its receipts and sales, probably once a week, to the general association, at whose offices the general books will be kept. All of the business will be done under the supervision of a Board of Directors. In making up the value of the assets of the various houses a schedule of rates will be adopted by the incorporators, representatives of the seven firms.

One branch of the business of the association will be an advance of about $2,500,000 annually to the vineyardists for expenses in cultivating their vines, gathering their grapes and making their wines. It is probable that later a central depot will be established for storage of the wines and brandies. The capital stock is $10,000,000, of the par value of $100, of which $2,600,000 have been subscribed.

Death Came to Her Relief at Last.

Miss Charlotte Watriss, whose family reside on their farm near Agua Caliente, died in the Napa Insane Asylum last Saturday morning. The remains were brought to Sonoma and interred in Mountain Cemetery on Sunday. Miss Watriss had been an inmate of the asylum for over fifteen years. Before her misfortune she was an exceedingly bright and vivacious girl. She attended a party in this place twenty years ago, and getting her feet wet caught a severe cold which led to a severe attack of sickness that affected the brain. For several years her parents did all in their power to restore her dethroned reason but without avail. In the hopes that a thorough course of treatment at the asylum would accomplish what the local physicians had failed to do she was sent to Napa. Miss Watriss during her long confinement in the asylum was never forgotten by her relatives who made periodical visits to the institution to cheer her up and see that she received proper care and attention.

POLITICAL POINTS.

J. W. Oates of Santa Rosa, it is said, will be the Democratic nominee for State Senator.

Politics, a weekly paper of Santa Rosa, has turned up its toes to the daisies. Peace to its ashes.

Alabama has gone Democratic by 20,000 majority. The newly-elected Governor is a brother of J. W. Oates of Santa Rosa.

Granville Harris of this place, according to the Santa Rosa Democrat, is aspiring for the Republican nomination of Assessor.

John P. Rodgers, the well-known lawyer of Petaluma, says that under no circumstances will he accept the Democratic Senatorial nomination.

It is now conceded by Democrats that Prof. Abshire will be the nominee for School Superintendent on the Democratic ticket without opposition.

The Executive Committee of the People's Party met in Santa Rosa last Wednesday. H. D. Wagon was elected President and E. C. Hildreth, Secretary.

The call for the Republican primaries and a County Convention appears in another column. It must not be forgotten that the Convention will be held in Healdsburg this year. It will convene on Monday, August 20th. The primaries will be held on Thursday, August 16th.

The following were elected delegates to the Democratic Convention at the primaries held in Sonoma Township last Thursday: Sonoma, Geo. W. Sparks and M. Muldry; San Luis, Robt. Howe and E. E. Griffith; Glen Ellen, N. R. Hansen and C. S. Wilson; Agua Caliente, J. E. Kearney.

E. F. Woodward will be a candidate before the Republican Convention for County Treasurer. This is no rumor, as the gentleman's announcement appears in these columns. Mr. Woodward has served the people of Santa Rosa faithfully and well as Mayor of that city and if given a place on the Republican ticket will add strength to it.

Mrs. K. McG. Martin was in town several days this week looking after her political interests down this way, as she will be a candidate before the Republican Convention for Superintendent of Schools. Before leaving for her home in Santa Rosa she invested in a Sonoma donkey—one of those identical jacks that have been striking terror into the hearts of the nervous people of this town for some time past. By importing the animal to Santa Rosa we are sure the madam will make a few votes in a long-suffering community. This reminds us that his donkeyship might be used for political purposes. Why not send him to the Healdsburg Convention to stampede the adherents of Ed. Davis, who also has a hankering after the School Superintendency?

Sam Cassidy, the editor of the Petaluma Argus, will be a candidate before the Republican Convention which convenes in Healdsburg on Monday, August 20th, for State Senator. Brother Cassidy is a veteran Republican journalist, having been in harness for 38 years, during which time he has served the party faithfully and well. In all that time he has certainly labored for a principle, as he has never sought or held office. Of course, Brother Cassidy ought to be nominated by acclamation, but we fear he will find out like other newspaper men before him have found out that the professional politician has a call on the office. However, we trust it may not turn out to be so. Sam's Senatorial aspirations reminds us of a "little story," as Abe Lincoln used to say. Some years ago when General Mahone of West Virginia was running for a second term in Congress he made a personal canvass of his district, which was composed largely of freedmen, upon whose votes he relied in a great measure upon his election. The General ran across an old darky one day and solicited his vote. Sambo, however, refused point blank to support him, and upon being pressed by a friend of Gen. Mahone's for his reasons said the white man got everything he asked for while the nigger got left on everything. "Dis reminds me ob a dream I had de udder night," said Sambo. "I dreamed I was goin' straight up to Heben, and while climbing up de mountain toward de pearly gates I met Gin'ral Mahone. 'Whar's you gwine?' said he. 'To Heben,' says I. 'But youse not mounted and St. Peter will not admit a darkey on foot,' says de Gin'ral; 'but I'll tell you what we do, Sambo, you git down on all fours and I'll mount you. You to be de hoss and I de rider, see, and when we arrives at de pearly gates we can both go right in.' Berry well," says I. Den wid de Gin'ral on my back I at last reached de pearly gates. 'Who's darkey?' said St. Peter. 'It's me, Gin'ral Mahone.' 'Is you mounted?' 'Yas.' 'All right Gin'ral, jess tie your hoss on de outside and walk right in.' Thus it is with the average country editor. Like Sambo in the South, when it comes to politics, he usually gets left all around.

Ice cream, cake, candy, nuts and fruit interspersed with fancy iced drinks were served to those present. Instrumental and vocal music and games were the amusements entered into for some time. The family carriage was then placed at the disposal of the guests, who availed themselves of the opportunity of taking a delightful ride, after which all departed for their homes highly pleased with the pleasant way in which the afternoon had passed.

Just before performing the marriage ceremony for a young couple in San Jose lately, Rabbi Levi gave the young couple the following bit of wholesome advice: "The ceremony which declares you man and wife is one which is peculiarly solemn and beautiful. Henceforth you are to be one. If you shall fulfill your loving obligations, thus voluntarily undertaken, so that the community in which you live may esteem you, so that your family and friends may follow you with that warmth of love and devotion which they have always surrounded you, you must enter into each other's aspirations and hopes and life, and bear and forbear with each other. Let there be no place in your home for the petty quarrels and recriminations which throw a cloud over all happiness. Be mutually loving, be mutually long suffering. Let the new home which you create be a home of happiness and love.
